Quality Policy Statement

Australian Steel Mill Services Pty specialises in the processing and distribution of quality slag products for use in the building and civil construction industries. As these products are an integral component in these industries, ASMS is committed to providing our customers with consistent and reliable high quality products.

In support of the objective to satisfy our customer requirements and expectations, ASMS will continue to maintain a Quality Management System based on the requirements of the Australian Standard AS/NZS ISO 9001-2000.

This will be achieved by:

- Working closely with our customers to understand their needs.
- Complying with acts and codes applicable to the organisation.
- Setting and reviewing objectives to monitor performance.
- Providing employees with relevant information and training that allows them to achieve the objectives.
- Monitoring, auditing and improving processes and procedures to ensure risks arising from the operation are minimised.
- Ensuring non-conformances are acted on in such a manner so as to reduce the impact on customers and improve overall quality of process and product.
- Continually improving the Quality System in its scope and effectiveness.

Because it is firmly believed the quality of product and meeting customer' expectations are vital to the successful operation of the business, Management gives unqualified support to all aspects of this system and in addition, requires active and positive participation from every employee.
